

Endowment for an Applied Sciences Day
From the BSc Applied Sciences – Batch of 1993

We are a diverse and successful batch of students and we believe that every student has the potential to achieve greater heights in life.

On the occasion of our Silver Jubilee Reunion on 14 July 2018, we would like to make an endowment of INR 650,000 to the PSG Tech Alumni Foundation.

We want to use this endowment to inspire current and future students on the amazing and diverse possibilities in life.

This endowment is in memory of our classmates C. Dinesh and V. Kousalya who are no longer with us. Their lives have been an inspiration for many of us and we would like to institutionalize their memory.

We propose to use the interest accumulated from this endowment fund to establish an annual Applied Sciences Day.

Objective:

Inspire Applied Science students to achieve their true potential.

How we want to do this:

- Bring in eminent members from society (business, academia, sport, entertainment etc.), to share their journeys.
- Select guests who came from ordinary upbringings, and overcame challenges, to achieve their present success.
- In doing so, create an atmosphere of possibilities and provide a platform for students to get practical career advice.

Execution:

1. Select a day to be the Applied Sciences Day, each year.
2. Host the event at the College campus during a time that allows maximum participation from students and invited guests.
3. Invite students from all 3 years, and all faculty members.
4. Form a panel to lead ideas and execution, chaired by the Applied Sciences HOD. Include students, faculty, and Alumni Foundation, on this panel.
5. Ideas from the Panel could include talks by motivational speakers, leaders in industry and society, or even community projects that make a difference.

The 1993 batch will be available to mentor and help facilitate the event.

Logistics:

- We expect that the budget will allow for the college to host and pay for the day's expenses each year, including travel and hosting for invited guests.
- We request the college to provide appropriate facilities, manage the logistics of formal invitations, hosting, and manage successful running of the event.
